

Yellow warning
Ice

Between
15:00 Mon 3 Jan 2022 and
23:59 Mon 3 Jan 2022

Icy stretches are expected to form in association with showers over northern Scotland

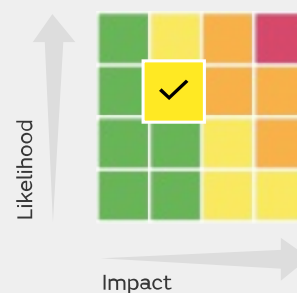

What to expect

- Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces
- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths
- Rapidly changing conditions, such as reduced visibility in snow showers, leading to some difficult travel conditions

Further details

With cold air spreading south across Scotland bringing wintry showers icy stretches are expected to form by late afternoon.

Some snow showers are likely but ice is expected to be the main hazard during the afternoon and evening before snow starts to accumulate overnight and becomes an additional hazard.

 Medium likelihood of low impacts
